

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

Will wonders never cease. My attention was attracted Friday afternoon by a noise outside my office window and looking out what should I see but a man cleaning up D. B. Johnson's back yard. During the afternoon several wagon loads of rubbish were hauled away which, to say the least, greatly improved the appearance of "Jungle Park."

Come on with your kicks and knocks. Give me something to talk about.

There is one basketball fan in Greencastle whom, I know, has got the old fight that it requires to win. His name is Frank Masten, and he formerly was some what of a basketball player himself. I asked him the other day what he thought of Greencastle's chances in the regional. "Why the best in the world," says Frank. "Do not let 'em tell you that the loss of Wally Longden is going to defeat us. That Crawley boy has the stuff and he will show it. No basketball game is ever lost until the final gun is fired and Saturday night will find Greencastle a winner, just as the following Saturday night will find it fighting it out for the State Championship. These Cubs sure going good, believe me." And that is the OLE FIGHT.

Well, it just got here. A verification of Milt Brown's post card message from Florida, which told about Mrs. Brown's prowess as a fisherman. To prove his former declaration, Milt sends us a photograph in which Mrs. Brown and himself serve as a background for a string of mighty fine fish. On the back of the photo we find the following notation: "Kingfish 20 pounds; King fish 19 pounds; King fish, 12 pounds; King fish, 6 pounds. Out three hours. My wife caught the 19 pound and 12 pound ones. Failed to land some larger ones. As hot here as in August in Greencastle. Milt." I did not doubt Milt's post card message a bit, but the photo is absolute proof for any doubters.

Water, Water everywhere,
And not a drop to drink
But water isn't what I mean
But you know what, I think.

Mumps or no mumps we are going to win the tourney.

My idea of a fool's farewell is blowing an automobile horn at the crossing to let the train know you have the right of way.

Is seeing believing? I saw a girl today with rosy cheeks.

This IS Curiosity
Several cars are under construction for the International 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30th, merely to test the qualities of small parts.

Most everybody knows of course, that there are valves in the motor mechanism of an auto car. But Mike Boyle of Chicago is about $50,000.00 curious to find out just what type of valve will best withstand the terrific grueling of a 500-mile race and come out at the finish to the best advantage.

So he is buying and building four automobiles, word comes from Chicago just to satisfy his personal curiosity in the biggest race in the world.

Cliff Woodbury, of Chicago, dirt track star who climbed to unusual fame in speedway racing, will have charge of the driving arrangements for the quartet of racers Boyle plans to race here, but which have not yet been entered.

Judging from the press notices we receive from the several candidates for state office, they all are fine, self sacrificing fellows, who are striving to secure office for one purpose only—that is to be of service to the people. Of course none has any ulterior motives nor desires for their own personal advancement. Far be it from that—especially at this stage of the game. Why even an EDITOR by the name of Dale, who lives up in Muncie has been determined to heed the demands of his party and make the supreme sacrifice by making the race for Governor. And even Jim Watson has agreed to run for president.

Up to date, Calvin Coolidge is the only one I have heard of whom has been urged, who "does not choose to run."

GREENCASTLE GOES TO THE FINALS

DEATH MYSTERY SOLVED

MADISON, Ind., March 9.—Mystery surrounding the death of Urban Higgins, Cragmont hospital attendant, who was found dead in a path near this city Tuesday morning, was solved last night when an empty poison bottle was found within forty feet of where the body was found. A search through his room at the hospital uncovered another clue when a pamphlet revealed what was thought to be his last written statement: "Don't blame anybody for this, just me."

BAINBRIDGE MAY PROTEST BRAZIL STAR

PRINCIPAL ELMER NORRIS REQUESTS SPOONER SCHOOL OFFICIAL TO FILE CHARGE AGAINST DELMAS GOODIN—PUTNAM COUNTY TEACHER SAYS FLOOR GUARD IS PAST AGE

Bainbridge may file a protest with the Indiana High School Athletic Association that Delmas Goodin, star floor guard of the Brazil High School basketball team is 21 years old, and thus ineligible to play high school basketball, according to a lengthy article appearing in the Spencer Evening World.

According to the editor of the World, Principal Elmer Norris, of Bainbridge, requested Principal W. G. Henderson of Spencer to file a charge with the I. H. S. A. A. that Goodin is past 21 years old. Mr. Norris, it is said, presented a duplicate birth certificate showing that Goodin was 21 February 25, 1928.

After the Spencer principal refused to file a protest with A. L. Trester the Spencer editor called Mr. Goodin at Brazil. Goodin said he would be 21 on April 25. Later the Brazil high school principal said Goodin would be 21, March 25. It was said that after the confusion in dates became known, Goodin admitted he had made a false statement regarding his birth date because he was afraid he would be unable to play if he gave his correct birthday date.

When Principal Norris was called by the Spencer Editor he said he was undecided about what he would do. He said he was very displeased with the manner in which Brazil had protested its defeat at Bainbridge when Mr. Norris walked upon the playing floor. Mr. Norris said he had a sworn statement from a Dr. Hill of Rosedale, that Goodin was born February 25, 1907. Goodin was born in Parke county.

Mr. Trester was also called by the Spencer editor but the czar of Indiana basketball refused to comment on what might be said and he had no statement to make.

Brazil last week end won the sectional tournament at Spencer and is playing today in the Bloomington regional.

150 ON WRECKED LINER START TRIP TO SHORE

SMALL BOATS TO BE USED TO RESCUE PASSENGERS ON ILL-FATED ROBERT E. LEE

WEDGED ON SUNKEN REEF Coast Guard Cutters Rush To Stranded Ship After S. O. S. Calls Are Heard

PLYMOUTH, Mass., March 10.—(INS)—The 150 passengers aboard the stranded liner Robert E. Lee will be rescued by small boats.

Government officials and representatives of the Eastern Steamship Company decided on this plan today.

Observers ashore with glasses saw a movement of persons from the deck of the Robert E. Lee to the deck of a coast guard patrol boat moored along side and a transfer was believed to be underway. Official, however, after further observation decided that it was coast guardsmen and members of the steamship's crew moving back and forth. Because of the danger of jagged rocks at low tide officials said it would not be possible to begin the actual transfer until afternoon.

The idea of taking the passengers aboard the steamship George Washington or of landing them by means of breeches buoy having been abandoned because of the strong north-west wind and the choppy sea.

The George Washington had poured oil on the troubled waters about the stricken Robert E. Lee and this proved a big aid in bringing the coastguard boats alongside.

Dawn today found rescue ships riding the heavy rollers in a howling northeast blow near the stranded Boston-to-New York Eastern steamship liner Robert E. Lee with daylight a welcomed sight for her 150 anxious passengers and a crew of 113 officers and men.

Wedged on a sunken reef known as Marq Ann rocks, one mile and a half from Manomet Point, the Robert E. Lee was pounded all night by a raging sea.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 10.—(INS)—Regional contests in sixteen Indiana cities beginning this afternoon by tonight will have reduced the 64 survivors in the 17th annual Indiana High School basketball championship to the 16 winners who will fight it out March 16 and 17 in the new $650,000 Butler University field house here for the 1928 title.

Sectional meets last week eliminated 676 of the 740 high school quintets that entered the tournament regarded as the world's greatest basketball competition.

In eight of the regional centers the dope plainly favored the sending of top-heavy favorites to the final tournament in Indianapolis. Martinsville, 1927 champion, was expected to win the Bloomington regional. Other teams picked as winners today were Logansport, Muncie, Connersville, Anderson, Central of Evansville, Washington of East Chicago and Central of Fort Wayne.

Frankfort, Goshen, Vincennes, Bedford, Kendallville, Columbus, Greencastle and Sharpsville are expected to have to battle hard to qualify to enter the final round next week.

In fact chief interest today centers in the contests Vincennes, Frankfort, New Albany, Columbus and Greencastle.

All of the 64 teams playing today were reported in good condition with the exception of Vincennes and Greencastle. The Alices will miss the services on Don Cummins, star guard who is out of the game with a wrench ankle. The illness of Wally Longden, forward on the Greencastle five, has impaired that team's chances in the belief of many.

SPANKING MAMMA FACES 100 DAYS IMPRISONMENT

KANSAS CITY, Kas., March 9.—Holding that spanking administered Lorene Jones, 16 years old, by her mother, Mrs. Christine Woodside, was "unwarrantedly severe," Judge Fred R. White tonight imposed a fine of $100 on the mother who was arrested on the girl's complaint.

Lorene was whipped Sunday night with a coat hanger when she refused to tell where she had been in the family motor car.

Mrs. Woodside, former snake charmer and lion tamer for a carnival declared she was unable to pay the fine and if necessary would go to jail.

Approximately five thousand persons jammed the auditorium in the city hall, where the hearing had been transferred because Judge White's courtroom was too small to accommodate the jam. Several women fainted. The crowd was chiefly feminine. Three thousand persons were turned away. Traffic in the vicinity was in a snarl.

In a statement from the bench just before he fined Mrs. Woodside, Judge White said he believed from the girl's statement and her mother's attitude that the punishment inflicted had been entirely too severe.

"Parents always have a right to punish their children," said the judge, "but they have no right to be brutal."

WM. MORGAN TO BE TRIED AGAIN NEXT THURSDAY

A re-trial of William "Bill" Morgan, Greencastle man, charged with possession of intoxicating liquor, will begin next Thursday, March 15, in the Putnam Circuit court, according to Prosecutor Clifford Dickerson. The first trial several weeks ago resulted in a hung jury. Morgan has been at liberty since that time under bond.

Morgan's case attracted considerable attention before and will no doubt be well attended again. He was convicted of possession of liquor in city court after officers testified they found a quantity of liquor and other suspicious paraphernalia as a result of a search of his home several months ago. He appealed the verdict to the higher court where trial of the case resulted in a hung jury.

The higher court where trial of the charge he was again arrested on a charge of sale of liquor but this case was not prosecuted in city court when Morgan promised to get out of town and stay out. Morgan however, has continued to live in the city. It is said.

THE JAZZ SINGER

NOVELIZED BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
 "THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS

The New York Ghetto seethes
 in preparation for its important holiday, Yom Kippur. Cantor Rabinowitz, who has taught his son, Jakie, the synagogue songs, finds the boy singing ragtime in a "beer garden." He whips the child and Jakie runs off. Ten years elapse.
 Jakie has changed his name to Jack
 Robin and become a jazz singer.
 He is hunting a job in a San Francisco vaudeville booking office and meets a theatrical friend, Buster Billings. Buster tells him that Mary Dale, a dancer whom Jack admires, is in town. They go to "Coffee Dan's" to eat. Mary is there. The pianist asks Jack to sing.

CHAPTER V—Continued

The applause came stronger than ever, although no one there had ever heard of Jack Robin. But everyone was willing to try anything once, and these impromptu entertainments were a feature of
 "Coffee Dan's."

At the mention of his name Jack gasped, and then shrank back in his chair. But Frank was turning towards him and motioning him to the platform. He signalled to the pianist and shook his head, embarrassed.

"Mr. Jack Robin," Frank was announcing.

"I can't, Buster. Tell him I can't," Jack was pleading.

"Oh, go ahead and be a good kid," Buster was shouting his unwilling companion towards the platform.

"Go on, kid. Be a sport. Everybody does somethin' here. Give 'em somethin' good. Why, even the opera stars sing here. Go on, give em "Top of the World." Frank knows it."

Later had, by this time, pushed Jack to the platform and Frank was extending his hand to pull the singer up beside him. Jack straightened his coat and cleared his throat.

"What'll it be, Jack," Frank asked.

"Do you know 'I'm Sitting on Top of the World'?" Jack asked.

"Sure. Folks, Mr. Jack Robin will sing that little song entitled, 'I'm Sitting on Top of the World.' How about it?"

Frank turned to the piano and began to play the introduction.

As he heard the first bars of the music his nervousness left him,
 and Jack looked out over his audience and smiled. The smile caught—a cheerful smile with the magnetism of personality that reached out and caused the diners
 in the cafe to stop and listen.

"I'm sitting on top of the world,
 Just rollin' along and singin' a song—"

Jack began the chorus. It was the voice of Jakie Rabinowitz—the voice with the cry in it. But it was a voice that had deepened and enriched itself, until now it might have measured with the voice of Cantor Rabinowitz and lost not one iota in the measuring.

As the voice rolled out Mary Dale turned to stare in wide-eyed amazement. She saw a good looking young man in shabby clothes singing with the voice of an angel.

There was a new quality to his expression, a vivid force that ran like currents of electricity transmitting themselves into the heart of the listener.

"Just rollin' along, and singin' a song—" Jack sung himself forward, as had the Jakie in the old days. But as he looked out at his audience his eyes caught those of the girl as though by some unknown attraction. He gulped, faltered for a second, but he was the theatre, and quickly he caught himself and continued the song. But he could not take his eyes from the girl.

"Who's your friend, Mary?" Ben Thorpe asked jealously, noticing the obvious manner in which the two were staring at each other.

Mary crimsoned, and then the pink trailed down her face leaving the white skin whiter by contrast.

"Sh-h-h!" she commanded. "I don't know."

The song came to a close and scarcely had the last notes died when the diners began thundering their appreciation with calls and claps and hammering silverware.

Frank jumped up from his stool
 and shook Jack's hand.

"Great number, kid," he whispered, and then pushed Jack forward to take his bows.

But Jack was already hurrying from the platform as though frightened by his own success. And Buster was slapping him heartily on the back and trying to push him towards the platform again.

But Jack laughingly slipped into his seat and shook his head. Almost immediately his eyes sought those of the girl, but she seemed absorbed in her friends. But what she was actually doing was talking about the singer.

"I tell you that's a marvelous voice," she was saying.

"Not so bad," Ben approved.

"Well, I'm going to tell Berg about him," Mary went on. "Why, with a voice like that he ought to be able to do something very worthwhile. I wonder what he's doing now?"

"Never heard of him," Estelle answered. "But he certainly tumbled when he looked at you, Babe."

Mary turned away, not particularly anxious to discuss this phase of affairs. And as she turned she glanced towards Jack's table. Then her face lighted up, and she smiled and bowed.

"Why, there's Buster Billings, and he's with Jack Robin. Don't you remember—Buster was on the same bill with us in Seattle?" Mary turned to Estelle and Ben. "He had a monologue."

"You never told me you knew her," Jack was accusing Buster.

"You never asked me," Buster laughed. "Sure, I know them. We were on the same bill in Seattle and Spokane. I'm going over and say 'Hello.'"

He rose, and Jack started to rise,
 too, but subsided into his chair
 again, feeling that he did not wish to force an introduction unless Mary was willing.

"Hello, Mary," Buster was shaking hands with the dancer.

"Well, Buster, I am glad to see you. Won't you sit down?" She pushed a chair towards him. "You remember Mr. Thorpe and Miss Morton, don't you, Mr. Billings?"

"Sure, remember back in Seattle," Buster began.

"Say who's your boy friend?"
 Estelle interrupted.

"Him? Oh, that's Jack Robin.
 We traileed around out in the sticks together for a long time, playin'
 the four-day. But I left him out in Cheyenne and I ain't seen him since until today. Bumped into him down to Schuler's office huntin' a bookin'. Want to meet him."

"Sure thing. Bring him over."
 Estelle was nothing if not "just a pal."

Buster turned round and motioned to Jack, who was eagerly watching the little party. He signalled him to jump up and hurried forward.

Then he slowed down in an attempt to hide his eagerness. And, taking it by and large, it was a rather embarrassed young man who finally grasped Mary's hand and mumbled something which neither Mary nor he, himself, understood.

"Won't you sit here, Mr. Robin," Mary motioned to a vacant chair beside her.

"I want to congratulate you, if I may, on your singing.
 You have a splendid voice."

Jack looked around scarcely knowing how to answer.

"Why—why—thank you, Miss Dale," he stammered. "That's very —very kind of you."

"And you really have an extraordinary way of putting a song over," Mary continued. "What are you doing now?"

Jack became more and more confused. He couldn't tell this girl that he was bumming a free meal out of a job, and without a penny in his pockets.

"Well, I—I'm sort of looking around," he managed to answer.

Mary nodded, chin in hand, considering carefully this man beside her and his possibilities.

The music struck up again and couples began to dance out on the floor.

"Want to dance," Ben turned to Estelle.

"We don't seem to be particularly necessary around here," she laughed in answer, looking at Mary and Jack, who sat absorbed in the contemplation of each other.

They joined the group on the dance square. Buster opened his mouth as though to speak, and then looked from Jack to Mary, and from Mary to Jack. What he saw discouraged speech, as he pushed his chair back, mumbling something about "two being a company but three was about as useful as a top sergeant," and wandered off to talk to Frank.

STREET SIGNS NEEDED

An improvement which is urgent in Greencastle is that of "raised" street signs at the corners of streets. Most of the streets are designated, it is true, but the names are imbedded in the sidewalks.

If street signs would be placed on neat posts at each street intersection, the appearance of the town would be definitely improved. Other advantages would follow; tourists would appreciate our town more, drivers of cars would know which street they were driving on, and the street signs could be read in all kinds of weather, whereas now, they are often covered by snow or mud, or destroyed by tearing up of the sidewalks.

With the additions and reconstruction of the streets, visible signs should be present. Such an improvement would cost very little, considering the many benefits to be derived.
 To anyone interested in beautifying and boosting Greencastle, here is a good starting point.

CANDIDATES ARE SCARCE SAYS CLERK

MOST OF THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES WILL BE UP FOR RE-NOMINATION AND PROBABLY WILL HAVE NO OPPOSITION

Although Friday was the first day for county candidates to file declarations of candidacy for county offices, no one appeared to make a formal declaration of candidacy for office, according to County Clerk Ferd Lucas.

Mr. Lucas also said that he had not as yet appointed election commissioners. Commissioners are recommended by county chairman A. R. Chenoweth, Republican and Fay S. Hamilton, Democrat and then formally appointed by the county clerk.

Few county offices are to be filled this year. Most of the offices to be filled are now occupied by first-term men who customarily are re-nominated for re-election. These offices include that of sheriff, prosecutor and treasurer.

Mr. Lucas said early Saturday that he expected several candidates to make formal declarations of candidacy during the day.

Among officers to be elected is a commissioner from the first district; a commissioner from the third district, a joint representative from Putnam and Owen county, a prosecuting attorney, sheriff and treasurer. The Democratic occupants of all these offices, excepting the commissioners from the first district, will be up for re-nomination, and probably will have no opposition.

INDIANA HIGH SCHOOL TEXT BOOK PRICES UP

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. March 10.—High school students in Indiana for the five-year period beginning next year will pay an average of 22.5 cents a volume more for textbooks than they have for the last five years as a result of action yesterday by the state board of education in awarding contracts and adopting new texts.

In a more or less prefatory meeting followed a closed conference Friday night, the board selected fifty-three texts that will compose the study material for high school children.

A decided increase in the price of the books, which in some cases ran as high as 33 cents, over those in courses of study now used, was noticeable in selections made by the board. Ten of the fifty-three volumes designated are higher in price and only three are lower. The total increase on the ten volumes is $1.52, while decreases on the three total only 24 cents.

WATER CASE HEARING TO BE HELD MONDAY

Hearing on the petition of the Greencastle Water Works Company for an increase in rates will be held in the Court House beginning Monday morning at 10 o'clock, before a member of the Indiana Public Service commission. The hearing for various reasons has been postponed several times.

An increase in local water rates is being opposed by the Chamber of Commerce, and the city, the latter having appropriated $2,000 for the employment of expert aid in the fight to prevent the increase. The public is invited to attend the hearing the result of which affects every water user in the city.

ADOPT TEXT BOOK WRITTEN BY WILLIAMS

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION FRIDAY APPROVES "GOVERNMENT IN INDIANA," BY DE PAUW UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR HAS WRITTEN OTHER BOOKS

Among the textbooks which were adopted by the State Board of Education Friday for the high schools of the state was one entitled "Government in Indiana" written by Oscar H. Williams, of the Department of Education of DePauw University. The book was recently published by Laidlaw Brothers, of Chicago, and forms the Indiana supplement of a larger textbook on "Government in the United States." In his book Professor Williams traces the growth of government institutions in Indiana from the territorial period, and analyzes the work of state and local government as it functions today. It presents a new approach to the study of the problems of government in an American commonwealth, and along with the larger book it will constitute the textbook for cities classes in Indiana high schools during a five year period.

Professor Williams' book has received favorable comment from the school people of the state, and its adoption was urged by scores of superintendents and high school principals. It was adopted on the first ballot and received 10 of the 13 votes cast by the members of the board. Beginning next year it will be used in the high school of Greencastle as of all other high schools during the next five years.

Professor Williams is also author of a textbook in Indiana History.

30 BRUNETTES DIE IN RITA ASSASSIN'S EXTERMINATION PLAN

By International News Service
RIGA.—Police here recently arrested a Russian assassin who prefers brunettes and acknowledges that he was determined to exterminate all dark women. Men had nothing to fear from him.

"I killed her because she was a brunette," he declared when caught with his last victim. "My end and aim in life to get rid of all women unlucky enough to have been born with a dusky tint. I plunged my knife into this woman's heart and when she awoke and cried out, I stuck it in again. She wasn't dead then so I strangled her."

"Just then someone knocked at the door, so I kissed my victim, saying, 'All is finished, my darling, it's all over now,' then I announced through the keyhole that I was having a little dispute with my sweetheart."

The assassin refused to reveal his identity, merely stating that he had killed at least thirty women, all of them brunettes.

THE THEATERS

THE GRANADA

Apparently Director James Cruze took no chance of a slipup during the filming of "Old Ironsides," the gigantic historical and romantic photoplay which opens at the Granada Theatre Monday for a three-day run.

Five hundred ex-marines, most of whom had seen service in the late war, were engaged to play the roles of sailors on board the frigate "Constitution" during the recording of the stupendous battle scenes.

When production started upon "Old Ironsides," Mr. Cruze had his agents advertise for and selected five hundred ex-marines from all sections of Southern California. Each was required to prove his honorable discharge from the service.

The marines are probably the oldest branch of military service in the United States, being active as early as 1780. While their drill rules have been almost completely changed by modern warfare, these men proved invaluable to the production not only because of their physical and moral training but because of their ability to obey orders upon a moment's notice in true military fashion.

Featured players in the cast of "Old Ironsides," a Paramount picture, are Esther Ralston, Wallace Beery, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell and Johnnie Walker.

UNDER-PRIVILEGED CHILD AIDED BY KIWANIS CLUBS

CHICAGO, March 9.—"A greater personal service for the under-privileged child, which will mean the devotion of a small part of every Kiwanian's time and thought to initiate and maintain a friendly relation in order to study the conditions hindering normal development, is being stressed this year," says J. Hayden Oliver of Scranton, Pa., chairman of the Committee on Under-Privileged Child for Kiwanis International.

"The personal service," says Mr. Oliver, "is to be carried on in conjunction with other activities, such as work with orphanages or other institutions, crippled children, camps, dental and other clinics, and general educational work."

What the Committee on Under-Privileged Child hopes to do is to bring greater opportunities for moral, mental, spiritual and physical development to the children in the 1679 cities in the United States and Canada where clubs are located. With a 100,000 membership, the International organization can secure a personal interest that will be genuine for all welfare work, Mr. Oliver believes.

For the past number of years work has been going on primarily with boys. Now, however, the organization is to work as much with girls. "The assistance of the wives of Kiwanians will be eagerly sought, especially in connection with girl's work," says Mr. Oliver.

In many communities a large field of activities for boys' and girls' work has already been started. For this reason Kiwanians are urged to give service by cooperation with many established welfare agencies. "Any good work of this kind should receive every club's earnest support," states Mr. Oliver. "All that Kiwanis seeks is a square deal for the under-privileged child."

GROCER WOUNDED BY OWN BURGLAR TRAP

ANDERSON, Ind., March 8.—Elmer E. McCann, grocery owner, who has been robbed twice in recent months and who had set a trap by using a string attached to the trigger of a revolver in hope of catching the thief, accidentally fell victim of his own contraption this morning when he forgot and stumbled over the string, discharging the weapon. The bullet passed through his side and he is under the care of a physician. Unless complications arise he is expected to recover.

HOME LAUNDRY ADDS UP-TO-DATE EQUIPMENT

The Home Laundry owned and operated by Richard Sandy has made another addition to its modern equipment. A large-size gladiolus has been installed which makes it possible for one person to complete a family ironing. The gladiolus and another regular sized iron is attached to the ironer. Gladiolus are electrically operated and are used only in the larger laundries. It is quite an addition to the local laundry.

Mr. Sandy has made a number of important improvements since he bought the laundry, of which the most needed was probably the water softening system.

VELMA WEST GETS LIFE SENTENCE

When the Ohio state prosecuting authorities agreed to accept a second degree murder guilt plea for Velma West, youthful husband "hammer slayer," prison for life was the sentence. Under Ohio laws, parole may be applied for after ten years' imprisonment, which would make Velma still a young matron when she may again seek freedom.

HARDWOOD HITS

By LeRoy Bee

Like sixty-four other high school sectional winning teams in the state, Greencastle has an ambition to win a regional tournament today. Winning the regional will enter the Tiger Cubs in the state tourney where they would meet the winner at Fort Wayne in the first state tourney game next Friday at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Winning their first game in the state tourney would advance the Cubs to the second round where they would meet the winner of the 1 o'clock state tourney Friday game. In this game the winner at Auburn will play the winner at Bedford, which should be Kendallville versus Bedford.

Bedford should defeat Kendallville thus placing the Cubs in the bracket opposing the Stone City five. And local fans remember the Bedford five administered the worst beating the Cubs suffered the past season. And that's that.

Anyway playing in two rounds of the state tourney is quite an ambitious program and will be an honor that few Greencastle teams have attained.

Do you remember "Way Back When" the Greencastle five wrecked the aspirations of several wretched teams in the state tournament. Going to the state tournament in 1920, unheralded and entirely overlooked, the Greencastle five first eliminated Martinsville and then South Bend, losing to Anderson in their third game by a close score.

The Tiger Cubs should concentrate on an even more ambitious program this year. What if they have lost several games by decisive scores. Haven't they walloped Vincennes? Can't they upset other strong fives? Concentrate, Cubs, on victory!

And while the Cubs are battling in the regional tournament we wish to give a little advice to fans. Don't bet. Here's an example. Over at Greensburg a young man daily sits on the schoolhouse steps from 1:00 to 1:15 quietly fishing out of a pail of water. Intermittently he jerks up an imaginary "bite." Daily he sits there—and fishes. He can never hope for a bite. He can only fish. No, dear reader, he is not crazy. He merely lost a bet on a basketball game in the sectional tourney.

Maurice C. Tull, International News Service writer, picks an all-state high school team as follows: Wooden, Martinsville, and Dickson, Logansport, forwards; Secrist, Muncie, center; and Polla, East Chicago, and Armantrout, Frankfort, guards.

While the regional tournaments are under way in Indiana today Illinois will be winding up its district tournaments. Eight hundred teams entered the district tournaments and next week the finals will be played in Champaign, Ill.

"Off the Backboard" in the Indianapolis Times, in fact the same writer that picked Bainbridge to beat Greencastle in the sectional tournament, now picks Greencastle to win today. In lining up the probable state tourney schedule he places Greencastle in the bracket opposite Central of Fort Wayne with Central doped to win.

On the Mellott team is a player by the name of "Death." We hope he doesn't mean the "death" of Greencastle this afternoon.

TEST CASE TO BE TRIED AT DANVILLE, ILL.

DANVILLE, Ill., March 9.—(INS)—Whether or not death on the operating table constitutes "death by accident" is the important question to be decided in United States district court here when the suit of Mrs. Melvina Andrews of Mattoon, Ill., against the Equitable Life Insurance Society of America, goes on trial.

The case grows out of the death three years ago of Emory Andrews, the plaintiff's husband, who succumbed while on an operating table for the removal of his tonsils.

The widow's suit contends this was an accidental death. Her husband carried a $7,500 accident policy with the defendant company. She seeks $8,000 which includes the face of the policy and accumulated interest.

DR. M'GAUGHEY SAYS T. B. IS EASILY CURABLE

MUST BE DISCOVERED IN EARLY STAGES HOWEVER. LOCAL PHYSICIAN WARNS—FATALITIES RESULT AMONG THOSE WHO FAIL TO GET TREATMENT EARLY ENOUGH

"No chronic disease is more easily curable than tuberculosis, if it is discovered in time," stated Dr. W. M. McGaughey yesterday, in announcing the various symptoms to watch for in determining whether or not one has tuberculosis.

"Some of the danger signs which indicate the necessity for a thorough examination are when one is too easily tired, has indigestion, loss of weight, and lack of pep. To these people sleep does not give any rest and they are inclined to stay indoors at all times. A cough may be present but not in all cases. Many times tuberculosis has found where the patient has no continual cough whatever. He may cough once in the morning and no more during the day and still may have an active case of tuberculosis."

"The tuberculosis is apparent," said Dr. McGaughey. "People who have tuberculosis fail to get treatment for it early enough. Lung symptoms in the early stages are rarely ever evident and if there were no other signs a person might easily neglect a case of tuberculosis without knowing that he has it. Most cases of T. B. develop from a small inflammatory spot in the apex of one of the lungs. The reason for this is that the person does not use his lungs to their fullest extent and does not entirely fill them with air. The apex, to which the air does not reach, is the ideal spot for the germ to get its start. To avoid this danger breathe deeply at all times."

"Tuberculosis is hereditary only in that the child may develop defective lung, or one that is in a weakened condition, through the neglect on the part of the mother to use hers. There is no season for the disease, as in the case of pneumonia, and it may appear at any time during the year. Indiana was at one time first in the number of deaths caused by tuberculosis during the year but at the present time it has fallen to sixth place. This decline in the death rate has been caused by the attention which people have given to the disease and the new methods available for its detection. Twenty-five years ago a person did not know he had tuberculosis until it had come to the advanced stage. Now-a-days the X-ray will tell in a very short time if tuberculosis is present."

"The death rate has also been reduced through the efficient work of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Rockville. At present this institution is filled with patients suffering tuberculosis. There are two things which the sanatorium does which alone make it indispensable. The first of these is that it teaches the patients how to take care of themselves when they leave the institution and secondly it teaches them to encourage other people to seek treatment for tuberculosis. Cleanliness and care are drilled into all the nurses, and helpers connected with the institution, at all times. This is the reason that they do not take the disease from the patients."

A free clinic will be held during the latter part of this month for anyone who wishes an examination for tuberculosis. No treatment will be offered at this time. The specialist in charge of this clinic will be Dr. J. H. Stygal, of Indianapolis and president of the Indiana Tuberculosis Association.

ADVOCATES DEATH PENALTY FOR ROBBERY OF THE MAILS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(INS)—Aroused by the bandit raid on a Grand Trunk mail train near Chicago recently, Postmaster General New announced today the Post Office Department will advocate legislation authorizing the death penalty or life imprisonment for robbery of the mails.

Rep. Kelly (R) of Penna., announced after a conference with New he would introduce a bill providing the punishment sought by the Postmaster General. The present maximum punishment is 25 years imprisonment.

"Attacks upon the mails by armed bandits have become so frequent and methods employed so ruthless, it is my unqualified opinion that more drastic punishment should be provided," said New.

"The death penalty should be imposed upon any man who uses firearms in attempting to rob the mails, or who jeopardizes the lives of postal employees by using dangerous weapons."

Final events for the Senior Class of the Cloverdale High School will begin the evening of March 23, with the presentation of the class play, "Safety First," a three act American comedy by Sheldon Farmer.

This lively and amusing production has a story of sustained interest aided by a fund of ridiculous and hilarious situations. All goes well until word comes from the captain of the steamer that Jack and Jerry have been washed overboard. At this point interesting complications arise which make the play move along briskly with fun enough in it for everyone.

FARMERS ARE OPPOSED TO CORN BORER CLEANUP

ANBURN, Ind., March 9.—(INS)—Resolved that it is the sense of this meeting that we are opposed to a $10,000,000 appropriation for the cornborer cleanup."

This resolution was passed at the monster show meeting to farmers in the borer infested areas of Indiana called in Anburn by William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation.

An amendment to the resolution provided that if the appropriation is made the farmers receive 95 percent of the money for their borer cleanup work.

The meeting seethed with excitement. Speeches were made denouncing the way the campaign to fight the corn borer is being carried on. In Huntington County the farmers are going to test the law as being unconstitutional. A representative from Wells County said that the farmers in that county are 90 percent against the cleanup and in Adams County 100 percent.

CALL INTERNATIONAL
MEETING TO SET DATE
OF PERMANENT EASTER

By International News Service

LONDON—An international conference to consider fixing the date of Easter will probably be called by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, sometime during the present year.

This is the result of the House of Commons passing without a division the Stabilization of Easter Bill, which fixes Easter definitely on the first Sunday after the second Saturday in April.

Should the Bill receive the third reading and pass through the House of Lords, "the Government will regard it as an intimation to proceed with certain inquiries," according to Sir Austen, and the "Government would be asked to summon a conference of the great international nations."

At present Easter fluctuates from year to year, and it is urged that a fixed Easter will benefit all sections of the community.
